1. INTRODUCTION

The Social Enterprise in Scotland Census 2017 is a collective endeavour; a project brought forward in 2015 by those agencies with a shared interest in supporting social enterprise and growing its impact.

Building on the 2015 pilot study, the 2017 Social Enterprise Census is intended to provide a robust baseline position and subsequently track the changing scale, characteristics and contribution of the sector over the next decade. This will provide a snapshot of activity and progress every two years, aligned to the cycle of planning, implementation and review of the long-term national strategy.

The study provides a detailed profile of social enterprise activity in Scotland. It focuses on the scale, reach and contribution of this activity and the characteristics, health, prospects and needs of those organisations that are delivering it.

By 'social enterprise' the study refers to organisations that are undertaking social enterprise activity and operating in a way that appears to be consistent with the Voluntary Code of Practice for Social Enterprise in Scotland¹. This offers a broad but widely agreed set of criteria by which social enterprises can be identified and recognise each other.

The research that forms the basis for this report was carried out between March and August 2017. It included four main and interrelated elements:

1. Identification of the population of social enterprises currently active in Scotland, based on the definitional criteria of the Voluntary Code. This built on the dataset of social enterprises compiled in 2015, but involved a re-screening of over 15,000 third sector organisations and enterprises previously excluded that did not fully meet the criteria during the initial assessment.
2. A full and objective financial assessment of the population of social enterprises was carried out. The publicly available financial accounts of more than 9,500 organisations were initially reviewed and a fuller assessment carried out in 6,200 cases. In the end, financial data was extracted from various sources and compiled for 4,439 of the 5,600 confirmed social enterprises (79% of all), although full data was not available for each.
3. A large-scale Census survey of potential social enterprises was conducted. This was carried out to verify and extend upon the data already gathered. Administered largely online this obtained 1,650 responses, which after purging for duplicate and ineligible responses left unique responses from 1,351 of the population of 5,600 social enterprises. Segmentation and active targeting of respondents ensured that the achieved sample achieved adequate representation by geography (urban/rural) and economic sector.

4. An extensive financial and economic analysis of the available data was conducted. Data from the various sources was combined and cleaned for further analysis. Financial data, where available, were aggregated, analysed and benchmarked using various financial ratios associated with financial performance, strength and sustainability. Income, employment and GVA (Gross Value Added) estimates were also produced.

This Technical Note provides further details about the methodology, the basis for identifying social enterprises and producing the findings outlined in the main report, and the availability and use of data compiled as part of the study.

2. IDENTIFICATION OF SOCIAL ENTERPRISES

There is no legal definition of a ‘social enterprise’ in Scotland, and different stakeholder groups have their own views about what the characteristics of a social enterprise are or should be. A clear, workable and widely agreed definition has therefore been essential to the study.

Defining Social Enterprise

The Social Enterprise in Scotland Census adopts a working definition for the purposes of the research based on the Voluntary Code of Practice for Social Enterprise in Scotland² and agreed by the Census Steering Group³. This Voluntary Code is widely accepted as the basis for a diverse, self-regulating community of organisations that includes well established community and co-operative enterprise activity, the trading activity of community and voluntary organisations, and the work of social entrepreneurs.

The Census report uses the term ‘social enterprise’ to refer to those organisations that are undertaking social enterprise activity. The study is therefore not primarily concerned with whether organisations recognise themselves as social enterprises or not but on whether they are undertaking enterprise activity and operating in a way that appears to be consistent with the Voluntary Code.

The following sets out the interpretation of the Voluntary Code used in the Social Enterprise Census. It describes the basis for including and excluding organisations based on the Code criteria, as well as the associated limitations and challenges in the approach adopted.

Basis for the Assessment

The Voluntary Code of Practice for Social Enterprise sets out the criteria, values and behaviours by which social enterprises can be recognised and recognise each other. This Code continues to evolve.

The main criteria set out in the Code are reasonably broad and therefore require some interpretation for the purposes of the research. The following sets out five aspects to the identification of social enterprises that have been included in the Census and which form main components of recognition under the Voluntary Code.

² <http://www.se-code.net>

³ The Social Enterprise in Scotland Census Steering Group for 2017 comprises representation from the Scottish Government, Scottish Enterprise, Highlands and Islands Enterprise, Big Lottery Fund, Social Enterprise Scotland, Social Firms Scotland, Senscot, Voluntary Action Scotland, Council of Ethnic Minority Voluntary Sector Organisations, Community Enterprise in Scotland (CEIS), Social Enterprise Academy, and Social Investment Scotland.

A. Social Purpose

Definition

The primary objective of a social enterprise is to achieve social and/or environmental benefit.

(Relates to Criteria 1 in the Voluntary Code)

Interpretation

Transparency of purpose is a central element of being a social enterprise. To be transparent the social and/or environmental purpose of the social enterprise should be clearly articulated in the legal objects of the organisation. This means that the social enterprise pursues demonstrable charitable purposes or provides (or intends to provide) public benefit. This 'benefit' may extend to cultural, health or other outcomes for a defined 'community' of interest or place.

Assessment

The Census study has adopted the 'charity test' (passed by all registered Charities) and 'community interest' test (passed by all Community Interest Companies) as a first 'screen' of organisations potentially eligible for inclusion in the study. These forms of regulation provide a first-level indication that the organisation acts in the interests of a community or the wider public interest. This automatically excludes any organisation that operates for party political purposes.

Although potentially charitable, the Census Steering Group has also taken the decision to exclude organisations primarily pursuing religious goals or certain educational benefits (through private, fee paying schools). In addition, the study also excludes organisations operating solely or mainly for the interests of members, including, for example, hobby groups, uniformed organisations, producer and agricultural societies, trade bodies, and occupational and industrial associations. Likewise, Bona fide Co-operatives have been excluded for this reason.

While most forms of public benefit are easy to understand and assess, others are less obvious. Where organisations are not subject to Charity or CIC regulation, a review of the organisation's governing document has been necessary in many instances to verify public benefit. In other cases it has been self-evident from a visual examination of the organisation's website.

The Census also takes the position that an organisation must actively provide benefit or intend to provide benefit. In general, if a social enterprise does nothing for a prolonged period – such as a dormant company or one with no apparent economic activity – it is unlikely to be providing public benefit and has therefore been excluded.

B. Trading Activity

Definition

A social enterprise is a trading business – selling goods and services – which aspires to financial independence through trading.

(Relates to Criteria 1 in the Voluntary Code)

Interpretation

Social enterprises make and do things that earn money, which in turn helps them to remain afloat, build financial strength and resilience, and operate free from outside influence – in other words, trading to enhance financial independence. In this context, ‘trading’ refers to income in exchange for goods or services, and includes income from public contracts (this includes contracts based on Service Level Agreements). This trading may be linked directly to an organisation’s social/environmental purpose (known as ‘primary purpose’ trading in tax law) or unrelated and undertaken to make a profit that covers the costs of another activity that advances its social/environmental purpose (with the unrelated trading activity perhaps carried out through a subsidiary company).

Assessment

The Census routinely includes organisations that are selling goods and services direct to consumers or other businesses, or by way of contract to the public sector. This has been assessed through verifiable evidence of trading income set out in annual accounts.

The extent of social enterprise activity varies across the organisations included. Unlike other countries, the Voluntary Code and Census Steering Group have opted not to include an arbitrary threshold of 10%, 25% or 50% of total income from trading as a basis to define organisations as social enterprises. The view taken is that the existence of earned income from trade at any level should be welcomed and that this helps to foster financial independence. It is also recognised that there are many aspiring or emerging social enterprises that are still at an early stage in building their trading income to a meaningful level which should not be excluded.

The assessment of income from trading activity has been based on the examination of financial statements placed in the public domain. This includes annual returns and accounts submitted to Companies House (registered companies, including CICs), Office of the Scottish Charity Regulator (charities, including SCIOs, with an income of more than £25,000), the Financial Conduct Authority (registered societies), Prudential Regulation Authority (credit unions), Scottish Housing Regulator (registered housing associations/co-operatives). Where ambiguity exists in the presentation of accounting data, professional judgement was used to allocate income into ‘trading’, ‘grant’ and ‘other income’. Systematic back-checking of a sample of records by an experienced social enterprise accountant has also been undertaken to ensure accurate interpretation by the study team.

Where published financial statements have been unavailable (for newer, smaller and unincorporated organisations), evidence of trading income has been sought from organisations’ websites and census survey responses. In other cases, a presumption of trading has been made for social enterprises operating as CICs or in particular fields (i.e. community halls, childcare services).

C. Asset Lock

Definition

Regardless of its legal form, the constitution of a social enterprise includes the requirement that profits are reinvested in the business or in the beneficiary community – and not distributed to owners, shareholders or investors. In addition, the constitution always requires that on dissolution, the assets of the social enterprise are reinvested in another organisation with similar aims and objectives.

(Relates to Criteria 2 and 3 in the Voluntary Code)

Interpretation

Social enterprises are driven by their social/environmental objectives rather than a desire to make profits for distribution to shareholders. The inclusion of the 'asset lock' criteria within the Voluntary Code offers unequivocal affirmation that social enterprises do not allow profits from trading to be paid to members, shareholders or other individuals as dividends or bonuses. It also states that where an organisation ceases, any remaining assets would be used for the benefit of the community and not distributed to members. This positions social enterprise activity firmly within the third sector, rather than as a form of Socially Responsible Business or Corporate Social Responsibility undertaken by privately owned companies.

Assessment

The Census has sought to include only those organisations that adhere to the asset lock criteria set out in the Code.

Where other criteria are met, the Census study includes organisations that operate in a form subject to appropriate regulation or legislation. This includes Scottish Charitable Incorporated Organisation (SCIOs), Community Interest Companies, Companies Limited by Guarantee and some forms of Registered Societies – legal forms where such asset locks are subject to legal statutes. Although the study also includes a large number of unincorporated associations (not recognised legal entities separate from members) almost all of these hold charitable status and are therefore subject to the requirement to include an asset lock in any governing document.

The Census does not generally include legal forms that allow organisations to hold share capital (Share Companies, Limited Liability Partnerships, etc.) and therefore precludes the possibility of distribution of dividends to shareholders. Where charities are trading through share companies as part of a group structure, the study captures this social enterprise activity in consolidated/group accounts and separate commercial trading companies (holding share capital) are not included as separate entities.

In the case of CICs, the Census Steering Group have made an exception and opted to routinely include CICs (including the small number that allow for the limited distribution of dividends), given that all CICs have a statutory asset lock. This is also the case for credit unions.

In only a very small number of cases where ‘grey areas’ exist, governing documents been checked to examine who manages and controls the organisation and what they can do with the organisation's money and other assets. These governing documents include relevant clauses which confirm an organisation’s commitment to retaining profits and to the distribution of residual assets for public benefit.

D. Accountability

Definition

Social enterprises are constituted and managed in an accountable and transparent way – particularly with regard to the community they serve.

(Relates to Criteria 4 in the Voluntary Code)

Interpretation

The ethos of the social enterprise movement in Scotland has been heavily influenced by principles inherited from the Co-operative and Mutual movements – of common ownership and democratic governance. This democratic process ensures a level of accountability to workers, members, stakeholders, or the community they serve. Social enterprises should be able to show that they incorporate their communities of benefit and other stakeholders in their governance. To demonstrate this, the Voluntary Code has introduced a new best practice criterion which suggests that regardless of legal form, social enterprises should have a minimum of three (unrelated) Directors.

Assessment

The Census has been designed to include social enterprise activity carried out by organisations that operate in a transparent and accountable way.

Where other Code criteria are met, the study has routinely included community co-operatives, community share companies, credit unions, and other registered societies. These are formed to operate in an open and democratic way, typically along co-operative principles.

SCIOs are also routinely included given that these must have at least three charity trustees as stated in the SCIO Regulations. For other legal forms included in the Census, the law does not set a minimum number of trustees/directors but it is good practice to have at least three. A company limited by guarantee, as a private company, must have at least one director although most included in the study have several. A CIC limited by guarantee should have at least two directors (trustees) although a CIC limited by shares can have just one director and shareholder. The unincorporated associations included, while not legal entities, must have two or more persons who are the members of the association, and these associations are subject to charity regulation.

In practice, almost all of the organisations included in the study are required to demonstrate some level of accountability and transparency in relating to their governance, with varying levels of oversight from funders, registrars, and regulators (OSCR, Care Inspectorate, Scottish Housing Regulator, Prudential Regulation Authority, etc.). However, for logistical reasons, and to ensure consistency with the 2015 Social Enterprise Census, the study has not sought to systematically check and exclude organisations that do not appear to adhere to the new Code criterion of having a minimum of three (unrelated) Directors.

E. Independence

Definition

Social enterprises are distinct from the public sector and cannot be the subsidiary of a public body.

(Relates to Criteria 5 of the Voluntary Code)

Interpretation

Social enterprises should operate independently from the direct influence or control of the State. This means that no public authority or government agency should hold decision-making authority by virtue of dominant shareholding, membership, or director/trustee representation. In particular, the Voluntary Code seeks to ensure that the growing number of Arms Length External Organisations (ALEOs) – formally separate but under the influence and control of public bodies – are not recognised as social enterprises.

Assessment

The Census has not included organisations under the direct control or influence of public authorities.

Although they may be independently registered as charities, the Census Steering Group has taken the decision to exclude all Arms Length External Organisations (ALEOs) and Further and Higher Education Institutions, by virtue of the level of influence or control that public authorities or government Ministers hold over these bodies.

In the case of ALEOs, the statutory accounts of all Scottish local authorities have been systematically checked to identify and exclude organisations named as either subsidiary or associated entities.

In some other cases, governing documents have been examined to identify who manages and controls the organisation, what their powers are, how decisions are made, and any rules about membership of the organisation.

Limitations

The information provided is the result of extensive work by Social Value Lab to establish a reliable basis to ensure the accuracy and coverage of data on social enterprise activity in Scotland.

The work has drawn on many different sources of information to help identify social enterprises. However, in the absence of a single legal definition of a social enterprise and the availability of only broad voluntary criteria open to interpretation, the process of identification will always be imperfect.

There are a number of main limitations and challenges to note:

- The Social Enterprise Census includes only Scottish social enterprises, i.e. organisations headquartered in Scotland. It therefore excludes organisations located elsewhere in the UK, but with a secondary base in Scotland. As such, the study therefore potentially underestimates the level of social enterprise activity in local communities, if not the activity of ‘Scottish’ social enterprises.
- The study includes an analysis of social enterprise activity based on snapshot of information drawn from registrars, together with historic accounting data. As such, it does not capture the most recent social enterprises registered, recently dormant/dissolved/deregistered social enterprises, or recent significant changes in organisational trading or other financial activity. These changes will be captured in the next wave of the study in 2019.
- The study necessarily focuses on social enterprises that are subject to some form of registration (as companies, charities or societies) or operate in regulated fields (e.g. housing, care). While social enterprises tend not to embark on trading activity without limiting the liability of members – or without the protection of some form of regulatory oversight – it is possible that the study underestimates the number of unincorporated, unregistered micro community enterprises and social entrepreneurs (sole traders).
- The study relies on the availability of financial accounts to verify the existence of income from trading – as distinct from grants and other sources – which brings two challenges. Firstly, accounts are not available for many organisations (particularly smaller, newer or unincorporated organisations). The study team has therefore researched the organisation’s online presence for evidence of trading activity (e.g. goods advertised, fees listed, news items relating to contracts), relied on self-reported estimates from survey responses, and/or made well-informed judgements based on the nature of activities (e.g. childcare fees, hall rental income). Secondly, the recommended treatment of earned income through public contracts in statutory accounts is not always clear or consistently applied, with income sometimes incorrectly listed as grants rather than trading. Where the existence of trading activity cannot be verified the study team has generally taken a conservative approach in allocating income to trading.
- The decision to include organisations by virtue of identified trading activity is not straightforward. This is the most important differentiator of social enterprises from the wider third sector, but the most difficult to objectively assess given the absence of any agreed threshold level of trading income (10%, 25%, 50%, etc.). The focus has been on identifying ‘meaningful’ levels of income from social enterprise activity. The inclusion of some organisations with a relatively low percentage of income from trading is therefore potentially a point of debate, although a low proportion of income from social enterprise activity can be very substantial in absolute terms for large organisations. To aid transparency, trading income bandings for the sector (0-25%, 25-50%, 50%+) have been provided in the main study report. The study has excluded organisations with a very low level of income AND a low level of trading.

In general terms, the study has identified social enterprise by way of thorough, systematic and objective assessment based on the criteria set out. The analysis therefore includes many organisations undertaking social enterprise activity that are not normally identified as social enterprises, or likely to self-identify as such. Likewise, it excludes some organisations identifying themselves as social enterprises but do not fully meet the agreed criteria.

Work continues to improve the definition and process of identifying social enterprises. Future waves of the Social Enterprise Census will see further improvements in the quality data available.

3. DATA CLASSIFICATIONS

Social enterprises identified in the Social Enterprise in Scotland Census are categorised in a number of main ways.

Classification of Regions

The Social Enterprise Census examines the coverage of social enterprise activity across regions. It adopts the Enterprise Region classification, providing the geographic basis for regional planning of Scotland's enterprise agencies, enabling segmentation of activity into the operating area of Highlands and Islands Enterprise (Highlands and Islands) and Scottish Enterprise (the other regions which together comprise Lowland Scotland). The study classifies social enterprises according to the location of their headquarters.

Enterprise Regions

1	Aberdeen City and Shire
2	East of Scotland
3	Highlands and Islands
4	South of Scotland
5	Tayside
6	West of Scotland

Classification of Urban-Rural Areas

The study adopts the Scottish Government's standard Urban Rural Classification. This datazone classification provides a consistent way of identifying urban and rural areas based on settlement size and drive times.

An analysis of social enterprise activity has been undertaken using the 6-fold classification.

Scottish Government 6-Fold Urban Rural Classification

1	Large Urban Areas	Settlements of 125,000 or more people.
2	Other Urban Areas	Settlements of 10,000 to 124,999 people.
3	Accessible Small Towns	Settlements of 3,000 to 9,999 people and within 30 minutes drive of a settlement of 10,000 or more.
4	Remote Small Towns	Settlements of 3,000 to 9,999 people and with a drive time of over 30 minutes to a settlement of 10,000 or more.
5	Accessible Rural	Areas with a population of less than 3,000 people, and within a 30 minute drive time of a settlement of 10,000 or more.
6	Remote Rural	Areas with a population of less than 3,000 people, and with a drive time of over 30 minutes to a settlement of 10,000 or more.

High level breakdowns of data are also provided using the 2-fold Urban Rural Classification set out below.

Scottish Government 2-Fold Urban Rural Classification

1	Urban Areas	Settlements of 3,000 or more people
2	Rural Areas	Settlements of less than 3,000 people

Classification of Areas of Multiple Deprivation

The Social Enterprise Census adopts the Scottish Index of Deprivation (SIMD), the Scottish Government's official tool to identify areas of multiple deprivation⁴. It draws on the latest SIMD 2016 data release with its accompany ranks. On this basis it categorises social enterprises headquartered in the 5%, 10%, 15% and 20% most deprived data zones in Scotland.

Classification of Economic Sectors

The study categorises social enterprises by the principal activity through which the generate income from trading. Towards this end, a straightforward, high level and non-hierarchical form of classification has been developed for use in the study, which reflects the main areas of social enterprise activity in Scotland.

Customised Classification of Social Enterprise Economic Sector

1	Arts and Creative Industries

⁴ <http://www.gov.scot/Topics/Statistics/SIMD>

It should be noted that this customised classification is not aligned to Standard Industrial Classification (SIC) codes.

The classification has also been tested and refined somewhat since the Social Enterprise Census 2015, and therefore results by sector are not directly comparable with the earlier study.

A more detailed description of the economic sectors, together with notable inclusions and exclusions is provided over.

4. INCLUSIONS AND EXCLUSIONS FROM THE STUDY

The following illustrate typical inclusions and exclusions for each economic sector in which social enterprise activity is evident, although there are exceptions. In practice there is inevitable overlap between categories, which has been avoided as far as possible. Challenges also arise where social enterprises generate earned income from activity in multiple fields.

5. COLLATING FINANCIAL DATA

The Social Enterprise in Scotland Census includes a comprehensive analysis of the financial performance of social enterprises based on the best available data.

Types of Financial Data

The study has drawn on the following financial data that has been placed in the public domain.

Type of record	Number of organisations	% of organisations
No financial data	608	11%
Gross income and expenditure only	961	17%
Abbreviated Accounts/Micro Accounts	774	14%
Full Accounts	3,257	58%
Total	5,600	100%

Sources of Data

Source of financial information in the public domain

Source of Data	Organisational Form or Structure	Number of Records Obtained
Companies House	Registered Companies	2,453
OSCR	Registered Charities	2,031
Companies House (bal Sheet) and OSCR (Income/Expenditure)	Registered Companies with balance sheet data only that are also registered charities	222
Financial Conduct Authority	Registered Societies	49
Prudential Regulation Authority	Credit Unions	95
Scottish Housing Regulator	Registered Social Landlords	142
No data		608
Total		5,600

The study has benefitted considerably from changes in the availability of financial data being put in the public domain by OSCR and Companies House over the last two years, and the ability to access data online.

Data Extracted

It would then involve extracting data relating to the latest and previous financial year for the social enterprises, and ensuring all data all expressed as thousands (e.g. £1,000,000 is expressed in the database as £1,000).

Allocating Income and Expenditure Between Categories

Income

The income of social enterprises has been determined by extracting the total income from the annual accounts (Income and Expenditure Account) or, if annual accounts were unavailable, from their submission of total income and expenditure to the charity regulator OSCR.

From the information provided in the annual accounts we have allocated income to three categories:

- Trading – earned income through the sales of products or the fees for services.
- Grants – funding provided by public agencies and charitable trusts for a specific purpose.

- Other Income – anything that is not identified as trading or grant. This can include investment income, interest, donations, general fundraising activities and sundry income.

Identifying trading income

The first level of analysis was the Income and Expenditure Account. More and more social enterprises (and their accountants) are becoming more precise in identifying trading, or earned income, and reporting it separately from other income streams.

However, for most accounts we had to dig a level deeper in the notes to the Income and Expenditure Accounts, where income is usually itemised.

If required, we have also reviewed the Director's report and the appendices to the accounts to identify trading income (contracts).

Where there was clear evidence of trading through contracts or Service Level Agreements, but the exact amount was not clearly identifiable, we have made an estimation on a case-by-case basis. Sometimes a division was clear, but in most cases we have allocated 50% trading and 50% grant.

For the purpose of this study, the Census Steering Group has decided to consider Service Level Agreements as trading income.

Expenditure

Expenditure was allocated in three categories:

- Staffing Cost - the cost of staff wages
- NI and PAYE – the employers contribution to National Insurance and the withheld employee contribution to National Insurance and Income Tax (PAYE).
- Other Cost – all expenditure that is not Staffing or NI/PAYE

Financial Year Ends

To compile our financial dataset, we have reviewed the latest annual accounts publicly available for each social enterprise. For the vast majority these were the accounts for the accounting period ending in 2016, typically 31 March or 31 December.

For social enterprises where the latest publicly available annual accounts were for the accounting period ending in 2015 (743) we have extracted the 2015 data.

If 2016 and 2017 annual accounts were available, we have extracted the data from the 2016 accounts to ensure maximum consistency. If only 2017 accounts were available, a very small group (41), we have used the 2017 data.

Financial Ratios

The financial data would be aggregated, averaged, or benchmarked in a variety of ways. Illustrative financial ratios examined are as follows.

Illustrative financial Ratios

Financial Ratio	Interpretation	Calculation
Staffing Cost Ratio	The percentage of total expenditure that is allocated to staffing	$\text{Staffing Cost} / \text{Total Expenditure} \times 100\%$
Profitability Ratio	The amount of surplus per £1 of income social enterprises have earned after taking account of all expenditure.	$\text{Net Surplus or (Deficit)} / \text{Total Income} \times 100\%$
Current Ratio	The ability to meet the short term obligations ((those obligations due within 1 year or less) from its liquid assets (cash and assets that can quickly be turned into cash).	$\text{Current Assets} / \text{Current Liabilities}$
Grants Ratio	The extent of reliance of social enterprise on external grant funding.	$\text{Grant Funding} / \text{Total Income} \times 100\%$
Self Sufficiency Ratio	Indication to what extent cost are covered by trading income.	$\text{Earned Income} / \text{Total Expenditure} \times 100\%$
Survival Ratio	Indication, in weeks, of how long social enterprises could survive if income dried up and levels of activity remained the same.	$\text{Unrestricted Reserves} / \text{Total Income} \times 52 \text{ weeks}$
Debt Turnover Ratio	Indication, in days, of how long debtors take to pay their accounts. If debtors are excessively slow in being converted into cash, the cash flow of social enterprises will be affected.	$\text{Debtors} / \text{Total Income} \times 365 \text{ days}$

Taken together this would provide the fullest possible picture of the financial scale, performance, investment-readiness, and sustainability of social enterprises.

6. SURVEY DESIGN AND ADMINISTRATION

A large-scale survey of potential social enterprises was carried out to verify and extend upon the data already gathered.

Survey Method and Fieldwork

This Social Enterprise Census survey was set up online and an invitation to participate extended through all relevant social enterprise media and networks and via direct emails to over 7,000 prospective social enterprises where email contact records could be sourced.

The survey was open between April and July 2017.

Questionnaire Design

The design of the 2017 Social Enterprise in Scotland questionnaire was based on the survey instrument used in 2015.

The questionnaire covered information and views relating to their scale, characteristics, geographic reach, barriers, and prospects of social enterprises.

The development of the 2017 survey was based on experience from the pilot study in 2015 and on feedback from the study Steering Group. Most of the topics and questions included in the earlier survey were included again. A copy of the full Social Enterprise in Scotland Census 2017 questionnaire is provided as an Annex to this document.

The 2017 survey contains a number of alterations (additions, refinements and deletions of questions) compared to the 2015 questionnaire.

Based on feedback and requests, a number of questions were added to the survey additional questions included:

- 6. Please state whether the following statements about your organisation are true or false:
We have a minimum of three (unrelated) Directors/Trustees on our governing board/committee.
- 7. Is your organisation led and accountable to people in a particular neighbourhood/community?
- 11. Is your MAIN aim to create employment, training work experience and volunteering opportunities WITHIN your organisation?
- 20. How many individuals in the following categories currently serve on your organisation's governing board/committee?: of which:
 - are people from minority ethnic backgrounds
 - are people aged under 25 years
 - have a disability or long-term health condition
- 25. Please answer 'yes' or 'no' to the following statements about the characteristics of the most senior employee in your organisation (Chief Executive, Manager or equivalent):
 - Is from a minority ethnic background
 - Is aged 25 years or under
 - Has a disability or long-term health condition

- 31. Overall, how would you describe your confidence in the economic prospects facing your organisation over the next 12 months, compared to the previous 12 months?
- 33. Has your organisation bid for and won a public sector contract in the last 12 months?
- 35. Please list sources of support for any of the above that you have accessed in the LAST 12 MONTHS:

In some cases questions were reworded and/or re-positioned, limiting the comparability with 2015 findings:

- The 2015 survey asked respondents to state whether they measured their social impact, with an open comment box to identify which methods they used. In the 2017 survey this was replaced by 2 Questions about the extent to which they measure social impact (Q12) and a tickbox for methods used: Social Return on Investment, Social Accounting and Audit, Own method or Other method (Q13).
- The question to the nature of the business activities has been simplified to ‘mainly goods’, ‘mainly services’ or ‘goods and services equally’ (Q15).
- The 2015 census asked a general open question on targeted recruitment of disadvantaged groups, while the 2017 census identified 12 categories of groups disadvantaged from the labour market and probed whether the organisation targeted them specifically for recruitment or whether they were a major client group (Q28).
- The 2015 survey included an open question about support needs, while the 2017 survey identified 22 specific categories of support needs (Q35).

In a few cases questions were not repeated in the 2017 questionnaire:

- Is your organisation part of a larger/parent organisation? If so, which one?
- Does your organisation run any subsidiary trading companies? If so, which ones?
- Is your organisation a: Housing Association, Credit Union or Neither of the above
- Approximately how many volunteers moved to paid positions either in your organisation or with another employer in the last year?
- Is your organisation likely to have any property/premises needs over the next 12 months?
- Is your organisation VAT registered?

These changes may affect the reliability of comparative analyses against the 2015 study. Therefore, comparisons are only made in the 2017 report where it is assured that data has not been affected by such variations.

Maximising response rates

Social enterprises were encouraged to complete the survey to enable the production of quality outputs. This was achieved through effective response chasing, and by addressing respondents issues in a timely and efficient manner.

The survey was also widely promoted throughout the social enterprise community in Scotland, with active support from the main intermediary organisations which gave credibility to the study.

A manual exercise was also undertaken at regular points throughout the data collection cycle to identify locations and economic sectors with a low response. Non-responding social enterprises in these areas and sectors were identified and contacted.

Survey Response and Representation

Survey response is an important indicator of survey quality as non-response can introduce bias into survey estimates.

Response Rate

A total of 1,650 responses were received, which after purging for duplicate and ineligible responses left responses from 1,351 social enterprises. This provided a response rate of 24% of the known population of 5,600 social enterprises. This response rate is somewhat higher than the 20% response rate achieved in 2015.

Representation

As the survey uses a non-random sample, it is not possible to calculate how representative the results are at a national level. However, as an indication of representation, the tables below show the sample sizes in relation to the relevant population share.

Comparison of Sample Profile by Geography

	Sample Size	Sample %	Population %
Rural Areas	471	34.9%	34.1%
Urban Areas	880	65.1%	65.9%

Efforts to maximise response rates were required to ensure that the findings are reflective of the major economic sectors within which social enterprises operate. While the achieved sample represents a strong cross-section of the sector, some caution should be exercised in the interpretation of data outside of the four main sectors or social enterprise activity: Community Centres & Halls; Early Learning & Childcare; Arts & Creative Industries; and Health & Social Care.

Comparison of Sample by Economic Sector

	Sample Size	Sample %	Population %
Arts & Creative Industries	178	13.2%	13.9%
Community Centres & Halls	210	15.5%	17.3%
Early Learning & Childcare	184	13.6%	12.6%
Education, Training & Employment	67	5.0%	4.7%
Environment & Recycling	46	3.4%	2.7%
Financial Services	37	2.7%	2.2%
Food, Catering & Hospitality	28	2.1%	1.9%
Health & Social Care	152	11.3%	11.8%
Housing	50	3.7%	4.0%
Information, Consultancy & Support	61	4.5%	4.0%
Property, Energy, Utilities & Land	80	5.9%	5.5%
Retailing	46	3.4%	3.3%
Sport & Leisure	59	4.4%	4.5%
Tourism, Heritage & Festivals	81	6.0%	6.4%
Transport	28	2.1%	1.9%
Other	44	3.3%	3.3%

Item Non-Response

Item non-response, whereby respondents do not answer some questions, is a feature of self-completion methodologies. If the item non-response is systematic in any way, i.e. if there is a reason why some groups of respondents are less likely than others to answer a particular question, there is the potential for bias in the results.

In total 86% of respondents completed a full survey response and 14% a partial response.

The level of item non-response in the survey was generally low. Of the questions in the survey where a full response could be expected, just six had levels of non-response of 15% or more (see table). Therefore, item non-response is unlikely to have affected the results.

QUESTIONS WHERE > 15% of ALL RESPONDENTS DID NOT ANSWER

Item	Response	Non-response	% Non-response
Q32 Please tell us about any changes in the last 12 months, and what you expect to change for your organisation in the next 12 months:	1,088	263	19%
Q34 What, if any, are the main barriers/obstacles to the development of your organisation? (Select all that apply)	1,074	277	21%
Q38 Approximately, what was your organisation's total income from all sources in the last financial year? [Please provide number. Answer 'o' if none.]	1,008	343	25%
Q39. Approximately what % of your organisation's income came from the following sources in the last financial year? [Please provide answers that sum to 100%. Enter 'o' off none]	1,027	324	24%
Q40. What was the total value (£) of any surplus (+) or deficit (-) generated by your organisation in the last financial year? (Earnings before tax, interest and depreciation) [Please provide number. Enter 'o' if none]	956	395	29%
Q41. Approximately, what was the total employee costs (£) for your organisation in the last financial year? (Please provide an estimate including Wages, NI, PAYE and Pensions) [Please provide number. Enter 'o' if none]	980	371	27%

The main area of non-response related to questions that required the submission of financial information. It should be noted that the financial estimates reported at population level are drawn from actuals (reported in publicly available accounts), supplemented only where required by survey responses. Survey non-response was therefore not a significant issue in these cases.

7. CONVERTING RAW DATA INTO PUBLISHED ESTIMATES

Imputation of Financial Data

Imputation techniques are used to estimate the value of the missing data, as gaps in data can distort inferences or estimates relating to the population as a whole.

The following tables set out the number of cases where the financial data presented for the social enterprise sector (income, expenditure, assets, etc.) were available and imputed to provide sector-level estimates.

HOUSING ASSOCIATIONS: DATA AVAILABLE AND IMPUTED

Item	Data Available	Data Imputed	Total Cases
Income	151	2	153
Expenditure	151	2	153
Trading	151	2	153
Assets	149	4	153
Liabilities	149	4	153
Reserves	149	4	153

CREDIT UNIONS: DATA AVAILABLE AND IMPUTED

Item	Data Available	Data Imputed	Total Cases
Income	94	21	115
Expenditure	94	21	115
Trading	94	21	115
Assets	96	19	115
Liabilities	96	19	115
Reserves	96	19	115

OTHER SOCIAL ENTERPRISES: DATA AVAILABLE AND IMPUTED

Item	Data Available	Data Imputed	Total Cases
Income	4,194	1,138	5,332
Expenditure	4,163	1,169	5,332
Trading	3,007	2,325	5,332
Assets	3,710	1,622	5,332
Liabilities	3,710	1,622	5,332
Reserves	3,348	1,984	5,332

A straightforward method of imputation was applied to produce estimates of the value of missing data. This method used values from similar social enterprises to estimate values where financial data was not in the public domain, or available from survey responses.

Median values were imputed by both age (median values for organisations, 0-4 years, 5-10 years, and over 10 years) and type (median values for housing associations, credit unions, other social enterprises). Age was an important variable to adjust for given that missing records were more likely to occur for the newest social enterprises (many of which had not yet filed accounts) which were also likely to be smaller. It was also important to adjust by type, given the distinctiveness and comparatively large size of Registered Social Landlords and Credit Unions.

This method of imputation served to reduce the effect of outliers and recognise the diversity of social enterprises, and had also the benefit of not changing the sample mean for that variable.

The table below provides a worked example of the imputation of the missing trading data for social enterprises excluding RSLs and Credit Unions.

Calculation of Gross Value Added (GVA) and Employment

The study examines the economic contribution of the social enterprise sector. In other words, the Gross Economic Effects of the sector – the size of the sector in economic terms and how much economic activity is being generated in the economy.

The core measures of economic contribution calculated as part of the study are employment and Gross Value Added (GVA) expressed in monetary terms (£).

In the context of social enterprises, GVA is essentially the difference in value between the cost of inputs to the social enterprise and the income received by the social enterprise from the provision of its products and services.

GVA can be estimated at the level of the individual social enterprise by aggregating Surplus and Employee Costs and adjusting for changes in the cost of assets used in producing the product or service (depreciation and amortisation).

GVA = OPERATING PROFIT + EMPLOYEE COSTS + DEPRECIATION + AMORTISATION

In estimating the GVA of social enterprises in Scotland enterprise-specific data from individual enterprises has been used where this has been available from publicly accessible accounts. Where possible, this has been supplemented by data collected through the Census Survey of social enterprises. Data has been drawn from the most recent set of available accounts for each enterprise as of June 2017 – in most cases these have been for the 2015-16 financial year.

In assessing GVA entries for Employee Costs, Net Income and Depreciation have been aggregated in all sectors with the exception of Housing. In the Housing sector depreciation has been excluded given the scale of provision against significant housing stock. This is consistent with the approach taken in 2015 and facilitates comparison with the 2015 data.

In assessing employment a number of sources have been used (and in some cases multiple sources for each enterprise). Where full and part time employment figures have been available (either from individual enterprise accounts or the survey) these have been converted to Full Time Equivalents (FTEs) using national ONS benchmarks. Where headcount figures or only figures for total employment have been available, these have not been adjusted to FTEs as there is no evidence on which to base assumptions. Where multiple sources for employment have been available, an average of the figures available have been taken for headcount, FTE and total employment.

The method for assessing GVA has been primarily based on establishing the ratios of GVA to Total Income of individual social enterprises on a sector-by-sector basis. Of the total 5,600 social enterprises included in the 2017 study, 4,400 had income data available. Of these, just over 50% (2,240) had the data available to facilitate a calculation of GVA. This data was used to calculate a ratio of GVA to Total Income within each sector. Where no figure for Total Income was available no calculation was performed and no assessment of GVA calculated for inclusion in the study.

A much smaller number of social enterprises (171) had employment data but no income data. For these enterprises an assessment of GVA per employee by sector was calculated using data from the 1,722 enterprises with employment and GVA data. Application of this metric to the employment data for these 171 enterprises allowed an assessment of GVA for these to be included in the 2017 analysis.

The assessment of the total employment in each sector has been derived using the total GVA and dividing this by the GVA per employee ratio derived from the primary source GVA and employment data in each sector.

Overall therefore, of the 5,600 social enterprises included in the study analysis GVA and employment has been assessed for 4,570. As neither employment nor income data was available to scale the remaining 1,030 social enterprises the study team elected not to gross up the GVA findings to the population of 5,600 social enterprises. It is, however, likely that many of these enterprises where data is not available will be of a smaller scale and would not significantly increase the assessment of total economic contribution of the sector.

Final Quality Assurance of Estimates

All final estimates have been quality assured. The process of quality assurance includes the following:

- Aggregated data are compared with results from the 2015 Social Enterprise Census.
- Large or unusual movements are investigated down to individual social enterprise level.
- Totals are checked for consistency, including the sum of estimates for particular geographies or economic sectors.
- Sense checking of the GVA and employment data has occurred in collaboration with Scottish Government analytical staff and economists, to ensure that results are understood in the wider economic context.

Annex B: Survey Questionnaire

Welcome to the second official count of enterprising charities and social enterprises - organisations operating for the public good and generating income from trading activities. The project is being carried out on behalf of the Scottish Government, Highlands and Islands Enterprise, Scottish Enterprise, Big Lottery Fund, and others.

The aim is to ensure that the work of organisations like yours is better understood and better supported. The findings from the earlier 2015 Social Enterprise Census have already been widely used and made a huge difference. For example, they have been used to lobby on important issues for the sector, informed the Scottish Parliament's first debate on social enterprise, and informed Scotland's bold new strategy to support social enterprises. See the results of the 2015 Census here.

If you can answer 'yes' to the following questions we want to hear from you:

- Does your organisation have social or environmental goals?
- Are you earning income from selling goods, charging for services, or delivering contracts?
- Do you aspire to greater financial independence through earned income (reducing reliance on grants)?
- Do you reinvest your surpluses and retain assets to further your social/environmental goals?
- Are you operating independently (not as a public body)?

You may generate income from fees or contracts, doing anything from running a village hall, to providing arts activities, to delivering a care service. Whatever the case we want to hear from you.

Please take just 5-10 minutes to register some basic information about your organisation and its work. While you don't need to answer every question it will be very helpful to us if you can.

Any information that you provide will be treated in the strictest confidence and no information will be released that can separately identify the views of you or your organisation.

Respond soon to enter our FREE PRIZE DRAW, and you could be the lucky recipient of one of three iPads up for grabs. Respondents will also be the first to receive a copy of the published findings.

Just click below to get started.
